PRESIDENTIAL PREVIEW

A new look at the leaders

Our new President, John Harwood, is 19 and hails from Cambridge, in South East London. He attended Oxford School - a comprehensive where he scored 11 "A" levels and three "B" levels (History, English, French). Leaving school last July, he spent his summer vacation working in a biscuit factory. He is also a lover of tennis and plays on the university tennis club.

One of his main reasons for coming to Kent was the desire to start new traditions and actively participate in student government. He says he has already met many interesting people on campus.

ALTERNATIVE VOTE

John is satisfied with the other members of the Executive and hopes they will work together efficiently. This year he had to make the necessary changes in his program to accommodate the Executive's needs. He feels that the Executive will work well together to make the necessary changes.

He is looking forward to his first year at the university and is eager to make the most of his time here.

WHAT MAKES A STUDENT HOPE FOR POWER?

Severals of the can-date's positions were interviewed in an attempt to find a common actor, not necessarily the best one. However, they had all been accepted. They all seemed very normal.

Wendy Stevenson from Kent is a second-year student. She is a very hard worker and enjoys her studies. She is also a member of the Kent University Athletics Club.

She has a great deal of experience and is well respected by her classmates. She is considered to be one of the leaders of the Kent University community.

Penalties undecided

TUEsday, Dr. White-

house, asked at the meeting, that for the first time in his career, a student was going to run for a position as Presidential Candidate. He decided to run for the position of President because he thought it was important for students to have a voice in the decisions made by the university.

The meeting was well attended and many students showed their support for Dr. Whitehouse. The meeting was adjourned and the Presidential Campaigns continued.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

THE Age of Austerity

The Age of Austerity is the latest tome to come out of the University of Cambridge, and it is a fascinating insight into the current state of the British economy. The book is a collection of essays by leading economists and politicians, and it is a must-read for anyone interested in understanding the challenges facing the UK.

The first essay, by Professor John Maynard Keynes, explores the history of the Great Depression and the lessons that can be learned from it. Keynes argues that the key to recovery is not to cut public spending, but to stimulate demand through investment in infrastructure and education.

The second essay, by Professor Paul Krugman, focuses on the role of monetary policy in the current crisis. Krugman argues that central banks have a clear mandate to prevent a depression, and that they should not be afraid to use unconventional tools such as quantitative easing.

The third essay, by Professor Robert Shiller, examines the role of financial markets in the crisis. Shiller argues that the current crisis is not just about the housing bubble, but also about the role of financial markets in creating instability.

The fourth essay, by Professor David Blanchflower, looks at the impact of the crisis on employment and wages. Blanchflower argues that the current crisis is not just about the loss of jobs, but also about the long-term impact on the labor market.

The fifth essay, by Professor Mariana Mazzucato, explores the role of government in the economy. Mazzucato argues that government intervention is necessary to ensure that the economy is producing goods and services that are in the public interest.

The sixth essay, by Professor Paul Romer, looks at the role of innovation in the economy. Romer argues that innovation is the key to economic growth, and that it is essential to ensure that the economy is producing goods and services that are in the public interest.

The seventh essay, by Professor Jeffrey Sachs, examines the role of international cooperation in the current crisis. Sachs argues that the current crisis is a global problem, and that it is essential to ensure that the world works together to address it.

The eighth essay, by Professor Nouriel Roubini, looks at the role of regulation in the economy. Roubini argues that regulation is necessary to prevent a recurrence of the crisis, and that it is essential to ensure that the economy is producing goods and services that are in the public interest.

The final essay, by Professor Ha-Joon Chang, examines the role of the state in the economy. Chang argues that the state has a clear mandate to ensure that the economy is producing goods and services that are in the public interest.

The essays in this book are a must-read for anyone interested in understanding the challenges facing the UK. They provide a clear and concise overview of the key issues, and they offer practical solutions for addressing them.

Our future unsure?

The future building programme for the University of Kent at Canterbury may be seriously affected by the present government building "freeze". Work has already started on three new buildings:

College B, the Chemistry Building and a second Physics building, and

When the Chemistry building is completed, the present Physics building will be used as offices for students of Physics.

The site is being cleared for the library, designed by Lord Kinnock, although the actual building may be postponed. It is hoped that the first stage will be ready by 1962.

The future of any other new buildings at present is uncertain. It is known that a College C will be completed by 1961 but there is no assurance as yet that such a building, College C will be in a different site from other colleges. Negotiations have started with pensioners of the Stationary Office for their old buildings on the site. It will be a College D, exclusively for Chemistry, near College B. Also negotiations are in progress with the Zoological Society to build a College E, possibly by 1962.

No public notice will be issued for the erection of College D, as it is being built for the benefit of the University. This means that students may well find themselves living in College C and College E.

Robert Graves at U.K.C.

The Author's latest work, "Gogmation", has just been published by the University of Kent at Canterbury, and has already caused a great deal of excitement. The book is a collection of essays on various topics, and Robert Graves has been invited to speak at the university to discuss some of the issues raised in his work.

"Gogmation" includes essays on such subjects as the nature of creativity, the role of the artist in society, and the relationship between art and politics. Robert Graves is known for his distinctive style and his ability to provoke thought and discussion. His previous works, such as "The Inland Sea" and "Goodbye to All That", have been widely read and critically acclaimed.

The event is scheduled for next Wednesday evening, and tickets are available at the University Bookshop.

long tickets sold out by the manager, about 100 students from E.U.C. arrived at Ramsgate Coronation Ballroom to see Debbie and the stars. At 3 p.m. Mary, the students hurried through a door marked "Private" to interview Debbie and the stars. We found them in a dressing room, surrounded by people and music. Debbie looked beautiful despite the late hour, and seemed to enjoy the attention. She talked about her plans for the future and her hopes for the show. She was very kind to us and took time to answer our questions. The interview lasted about an hour and a half.

Princess Marina

H.R.H. Princess Marina, Duchess of Kent, will be installed as Chancellor of the University of Kent at Canterbury on Monday. The installation will take place at a ceremony in the Great Hall of the university. Princess Marina is a member of the British royal family and has a long association with the university. She is expected to speak at the ceremony and to receive an Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws. The installation will be followed by a reception for the guests.

NO, not the National Union of Farmers this time; the Nova University Festival, last year's Festival, Chemist, took place at Keele this year. Not only Yeovil University, not because we are an eastern elite or some such gang, merely as a reflection for a regression—a British Universities Festival would clearly be impracticable.

Neither the exact timing regularity of a week in summer for the end of the summer terms for locomotive terms have been fixed. The prospect of a Festival is going to be more of a surprise than the usual gathering of Universities, most ideas are not lacking.

The Master's Christmas Message

Dear Student,

The Festival has succeeded beyond our expectations. It has been a great pleasure to see so many of you enjoying yourselves in such a wide range of activities. We hope you will continue to support these activities in the future.

Yours sincerely,
The Master.

William Golding

GOLDING GOES OFF STAGE

GOLDING GOING to the Juvenile Common Room on Thursday, on Friday, he might have been surprised to see William Golding sitting there like a prophet surrounded by his disciples.

Contrary to expectation, Golding was on the literary circuit, as he expected from such a high profile and great success. He was signed to a big book deal and his book, "The Sea", was published in 1961. He was also a series of "seaside" events, which made him the talk of the town. His book, "The Sea", was published in 1961.

The Nays are probable candidates for a very large audience, especially in their large audience. They originated after Postgate and Found had missed a study of this group of characters in their new book, "The Sea", which was written by Charles Dickens. They have now grown into the story of a man's change in life after a long and eventful journey.

The Nays are probable candidates for a very large audience.

PETER SPRINGS as the Keep's bookshop, for "The First Five Hundred" presented at the Marlow Theatre. Thinking it would make a nice addition to his room, he went back- staging after the production and bought it. He took the fellow student's advice to carry it from the theatre to the market at 1.50 for use in semi-commercial conditions.

Wine Society

This is the society of the Wine Club, so let's see what the group has in store. The event is scheduled for December 14, at which time the members will gather to discuss the wines of the world. The meeting will be held at the University of Canterbury's wine cellar, where members will have the opportunity to taste and learn about different wines from around the globe. The event is open to the public, and interested individuals are encouraged to attend. The cost of the event includes a tasting fee and a 10% discount on all wine purchases made at the cellar. The society meets on the third Thursday of each month, and is open to all members of the university community. For more information, please contact Mr. Johnson at 123-4567.

Jazz Club

The Jazz Club will be hosting a special event on December 15, featuring a live performance by the renowned jazz quartet, The Swingin' Cats. The event will be held at the University's main auditorium, and tickets are available online. The performance is open to the public, and tickets are limited to 100. The event will feature a variety of jazz styles, including swing, bebop, and standards. For more information, please contact Mrs. Stevens at 789-0123.

Drama Society

The Drama Society is excited to announce the production of a new play, "The Three Musketeers," which will be performed on December 16-18. The play is a classic tale of adventure and camaraderie, and will be directed by Mr. Black. The cast and crew have been working hard to bring this production to life, and tickets are available online or at the door. The play is suitable for all ages, and is open to the public. For more information, please contact Mr. Black at 456-7890.

Archaeology Society

The Archaeology Society is hosting a special event on December 17, featuring a lecture by Dr. Green on the history of the ancient city of Alexandria. The lecture will be held in the University's main lecture hall, and is open to the public. Dr. Green is a renowned archaeologist, and is the author of several books on ancient Middle Eastern civilizations. For more information, please contact Dr. Green at 987-6543.

Music Appreciation

The Music Appreciation Society is hosting a special event on December 18, featuring a performance by the university orchestra. The event will be held in the University's main auditorium, and tickets are available online or at the door. The performance will feature a variety of classical works, including Beethoven's Ninth Symphony and Mozart's Symphony No. 41. For more information, please contact the society at 123-4567.

Poetry Society

SATURDAY'S SUCCESS, SUNDAY'S FAILURES

Kent College 6 pts. U.C.G. 15 pts.

A NEWTER victory for the University team was gained on Saturday November 27, when a morale-boosting match was held against Kent College.

The Colleges' attacks were well repulsed in the first few minutes, after which the University went on the attack, trying to break through Kent's front line. By the end of the half, the University had created its first real chance, when Chamberlain, with a powerful kick, forced Kent's goalkeeper to save. After the break, the University continued to attack, and the second half saw a series of good attacks by both teams. In the final minutes, the University finally scored, and a Kent College player was penalised for delaying the game.

Lord Halford has deliberately made seven mistakes. Can you spot them? Solutions to Editor, Small price, Classes December 10.
