UKC radio off the air

Off Eliot roof

On Saturday, March 12, a gathering of students in Blue’s Common watched the first student to cross the finish line as the Blue’s Common Radio Station Off Eliot roof race came to an end. The winner, a student in Blue who had studied in the roof, was one of the fastest runners in the race, as confirmed by the Times. He had set a new record for the roof race, which was previously held by a student in the Blue’s Common. The winner, who had studied in the roof, was cheered by the crowd and presented with a trophy for his achievement. The event was well-attended, with many students and staff members gathering in the Blue’s Common to witness the race and support the participants. The atmosphere was lively and energetic, with music playing in the background and cheers ringing out as the runners crossed the finish line. The Off Eliot roof race is a popular event among students in the Blue’s Common, and many look forward to participating and watching the race each year. The event serves as a great opportunity for students to stay active and connect with their peers, while also raising awareness about the importance of physical fitness and healthy lifestyles.
Dinners system

Once again Rutherford have changed their dinner system. The system now involves block bookings of 35 tickets at £3.15 (£20 a ticket) and occasional tickets at 35p each in the college shop up until 2 p.m. This would have enabled students from any college to dine in Rutherford at any time during the day.

At a meeting of the college board, the Master and some J.C.C. members on Tuesday 8th, it was decided that the occasional tickets would be a different colour and that they would be on sale until the shop closed at 4.30 p.m. and that students from other colleges would be prevented from buying Rutherford block tickets.

The colour differentiation would ensure that block tickets would not be sold to occasional dinners.

Dinners at least try to change their dinner system but have been unable to effect anything this term.

Women's Lib. Demo

On Saturday, March 6, 42 paintings by the Canadian group "Women's Liberation Group" went on show at the Unofficial Liberation Demonstration. The demonstration was launched from Speaker's Corner to Trafalgar Square where speeches were made for demands such as increased pay and better conditions. The protest was attended by a lot of people and after the speeches many会议 decided on the basis of the speeches held. After the speeches and the meeting there was discussion and an open meeting followed. Twenty-four hours later they were back at Speakers Corner to continue the discussion. Twenty-four hours later they were back at Speakers Corner to continue the discussion.

The queue for Led Zeppelin tickets at 9 a.m. Monday March 1.

CONCERT IN SPORTS HALL

The Led Zeppelin concert took place in the Sports Hall instead of Rutherford because of fire regulations. The concert was extended by the health and fire insurance and fire regulations.

Led Zep Queue

Ten years Sunday, February 21st, that the queue started for Led Zeppelin tickets, to be sold the following morning at 9 a.m. A boy from St. Ed. School was among the first arrivals--he had skipped dormitory to ensure his presence at the big concert.

Throughout the night there were many people who joined the queue so that by the time the UCAT came out there were at least 400 people in the queue.

Liberationist speaks

On Tuesday March 5, May Hobbs came and spoke to the Women's Liberation Group on the strike of the night cleaners in London. May Hobbs has been campaigning for about eight years to unionise night cleaners and has herself been involved in her militancy. She talked about the working conditions of the cleaners who receive about £1.42 a week for a week from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. which corresponds to being paid for 30 hours paid after tax. In most cases and travel expenses have been met. There have been no sick pay, no paid holidays. Their campaign has been supported by various women's liberation groups, particularly London Socialist women's group, however, reformist and (male chauvinists) trade union leaders have given the campaign little support.

The strike of the night cleaners will be a major victory for the movement, it requires very basic social change. March 6 was the third time that women have taken to the streets in this stage of this program.

LIZ LAWRENCE

The Boat Race on the Taur.

Rag a success?

The bed-in, students in the stocks and the burgling at Wye were all countered by women's liberation and the boat race.

The highlights on campus were the three-legged race which included a visit at each of the college bars, and the rag race in Knyon. The race included only two groups but also a zipper and disco.

The Rag Mags sold 500 tickets in London due to largely the organisation and efforts of the Rag committee and its helpers. Unfortunately, as with Rag in Cambridge, there was very little co-operation. The Rag committee hopes that after this year's reasonably successful rag that there will be a greater response next year.

THE EKSA elections next term

At the meeting of the East Kent Students' Association Executives on Monday March 8 the old executive handed over to the new. This new executive consisted of only two members: Helen Day (President), Social Security and Clive Gould (U.K.C.C.), vice-chairman Internal Affairs.

A role of thanks was given to the old executive, and specifically Mike Morley-Bunker, Jerry Dalan and Geoff Twiss, was unani- mously passed. The meeting decided to appoint Clive Gould as acting chairman until the post of chairman is filled. Ian Buckett (OCR) was co-opted on to the ex- ecutive as public relations officer for EKSA. Apart from representatives from the college a number of presidents from student unions in the area were present. A lengthy discussion took place as to how EKSA might be saved from collapsing in the near future. Eventually it was decided to hold elections at the beginning of next term to try and fill those places on the executive and the sag race in Knyon. The race included only two groups but also a zipper and disco.

Clive Gould Acting Chairman of EKSA

WINNERS of the four-legged race.

THE Boat Race on the Taur.

Rag a success?

The bed-in, students in the stocks and the burgling at Wye were all countered by women's liberation and the boat race.

The highlights on campus were the three-legged race which included a visit at each of the college bars, and the rag race in Knyon. The race included only two groups but also a zipper and disco.

The Rag Mags sold 500 tickets in London due to largely the organisation and efforts of the Rag committee and its helpers. Unfortunately, as with Rag in Cambridge, there was very little co-operation. The Rag committee hopes that after this year's reasonably successful rag that there will be a greater response next year.

THE EKSA elections next term

At the meeting of the East Kent Students' Association Executives on Monday March 8 the old executive handed over to the new. This new executive consisted of only two members: Helen Day (President), Social Security and Clive Gould (U.K.C.C.), vice-chairman Internal Affairs.

A role of thanks was given to the old executive, and specifically Mike Morley-Bunker, Jerry Dalan and Geoff Twiss, was unani- mously passed. The meeting decided to appoint Clive Gould as acting chairman until the post of chairman is filled. Ian Buckett (OCR) was co-opted on to the ex- ecutive as public relations officer for EKSA. Apart from representatives from the college a number of presidents from student unions in the area were present. A lengthy discussion took place as to how EKSA might be saved from collapsing in the near future. Eventually it was decided to hold elections at the beginning of next term to try and fill those places on the executive and the sag race in Knyon. The race included only two groups but also a zipper and disco.

Clive Gould Acting Chairman of EKSA

WINNERS of the four-legged race.
Letters to the Editor

Tory reply

Dear Madam,

I refer to the letter from Mr. George Baddeley in which he states, "I think the idea of the University Working Party is a good one. It is a body that is concerned with the recruitment of students to the University. It is a body that is concerned with the recruitment of students to the University. It is a body that is concerned with the recruitment of students to the University." I believe that the University Working Party should be concerned with the recruitment of students to the University, and I think that this is a good idea. I have heard that the University Working Party is concerned with the recruitment of students to the University, and I believe that this is a good idea.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

More on the nursery scheme

Dear Madam,

During the latter stages of the 1980-81 academic year, a document discussing the nursery scheme in the University was circulated. This document was concerned with the recruitment of students to the University, and I believe that it was a good idea. I have heard that the University Working Party is concerned with the recruitment of students to the University, and I believe that this is a good idea.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

T W I N K

D I L L O N S C A N T E R B U R Y B O O K S H O P

"The shop on the spot"

WE ALWAYS SELL BOOKS

WE ARE OPEN THRU THE VAC
BOOKS CAN BE POSTED TO YOU

The Independent Student Newspaper of the University of Kent at Canterbury
Tel: Canterbury 06422 ext. 256
Editor: Henry Brown
News Editor: Dave Cattledge
Arts Editor: Jane Cunningham
Business Manager: Colin Stone
Sales Manager: Ian Cornish
Sports Editor: John Atkinson

Photo Editor: Midas Munt
Grapher: Tim Berry
Whose's On: Carolyn Leigh
Crossword: Elid. WAW
Contributors: Graham Burfoot, Margaret Hillman, Clive Goulard, Liz Lawrence

Last week there were police in Darwin College for the third time in the last three months. They had a search warrant and were accompanied by the Master to the room of the student concerned. "Substances" were taken away by the police for examination.

Recently a student at East Anglia was suspended for a conviction on a drugs charge. What line would this university take in a similar situation? Would they risk a sit-in like the one by four hundred students at East Anglia held in protest over this decision?

When a yes or no question is asked in public student conferences, a blanket of "No comment" from the administration is taken as an answer.

Recently a student at East Anglia was suspended for a conviction on a drugs charge. What line would this university take in a similar situation? Would they risk a sit-in like the one by four hundred students at East Anglia held in protest over this decision?

When a yes or no question is asked in public student conferences, a blanket of "No comment" from the administration is taken as an answer.

It is a subject which concerns every student because it raises the question of the individual rights of students on campus. At the moment we do not know exactly upon what grounds a student's room can be searched. It seems to depend upon the particular Master's attitude to the police. When will someone in authority preferably the Vice-Chancellor himself, make the position of the administration clear?

What use the sports hall?

Dear Madam,

In the last issue of the University newspaper, an article entitled "Sports Hall for Students," in which it was stated that the University Committee for the Development of Sports Facilities was working towards the provision of facilities for students, was discussed. I believe that the University Committee for the Development of Sports Facilities should be concerned with the provision of facilities for students, and I think that this is a good idea. I have heard that the University Committee for the Development of Sports Facilities is concerned with the provision of facilities for students, and I believe that this is a good idea.

Sincerely,

[Signature]
In memoriam: T. S. Eliot

THE lectures were founded in 1967 and endowed by Eliot’s own publishers, Faber and Faber, to be a memorial to him. For this reason it was laid down from the beginning that the lectures should be “a subject appropriate to the memory of T. S. Eliot.”

Richard Langhorn

There is no modern financial historian who has done more to bring to the public eye the subject of financial history than Sir John Maynard Keynes. His work on the history of financial crises, especially his book “The General Theory of Employment, Interest and Money,” has had a profound influence on the way economists think about the economy. Keynes’s ideas on the role of government in stabilizing the economy have been a cornerstone of modern economic policy.

Religion and Tragedy are not so close to the present as the present to the future. The, “Aeneid” of Virgil is a work of art, not a history; but it is a work of art that helps us to understand the world in which we live.

Richard Langhorn

In this respect our own modern financial historians have been less successful. The most recent work on the history of financial crises is that of E. F. Hadi, who has written a book called “The Economics of Financial Crises.” This book is an excellent introduction to the subject, but it is not a comprehensive history of financial crises. However, it is important to note that our understanding of financial crises has improved dramatically in recent years, and we now have a much better understanding of how financial crises work and how they can be prevented.

Career

The career of Richard Langhorn was one of great achievement. He was a respected and influential figure in the world of finance, and his work has had a lasting impact on the field. His contributions to the understanding of financial crises have been particularly valuable, and his work has helped to shape the way we think about the economy today.

A REVIEWS OF THE FIRST REPORT OF THE ROYAL COMMISSION ON ENVIRONMENTAL POLLUTION by Peter Victor

A REVIEWS OF THE FIRST REPORT OF THE ROYAL COMMISSION ON ENVIRONMENTAL POLLUTION by Peter Victor

A Royal Commission on Environmental Pollution was established in 1969. It was one of the earliest commissions to focus on the issue of environmental pollution, and its work has had a lasting impact on the field.

Economics

The Commission on Environmental Pollution has had a significant impact on the field of economics. Its work has been instrumental in shaping the way we think about the environment and its role in economic decision-making. The Commission has been a key player in the development of environmental economics, and its work has helped to create a framework for understanding the complex relationship between the environment and the economy.

Peter Victor

The Commission on Environmental Pollution was established in 1969. It was one of the earliest commissions to focus on the issue of environmental pollution, and its work has had a lasting impact on the field. Its work has been instrumental in shaping the way we think about the environment and its role in economic decision-making. The Commission has been a key player in the development of environmental economics, and its work has helped to create a framework for understanding the complex relationship between the environment and the economy.

Peter Victor
Another turn of the racial screw

THIS Bill is evil. It is xenophobic in nature, racist in many of its provisions, discriminatory between rich and poor, man and women, and incompatible with the requirements of natural justice. It was drawn up without consultation of the Select Committee on Race Relations, the Community Relations Commission, or the Police Federation. It was drawn up by Home Office officials who daily rehash the reunion of families of U.K. passport holders with black faces (see Mary Dines, Race Today, March 1971). They have given themselves new and swinging powers to prevent anybody from disliking from entering this country or from staying here—anybody except "patriots".

Who is a patriot? Any citizen of the U.K. and Colonies who was born, naturalised, etc., or whose children are any person who is "the child or grandchildren of a person having at any time lived in this country or from staying here—anybody except "patriots".

If you are not a patriot you are not wanted here, despite your years of con- nexion with this country and even if you have a British passport (Kenyans Asian). Suppose you are a Dutch student, and are a British girl and marry him and have children and want to continue living here—you work a chance, because you are "not on that account to be granted an extension of stay or any variation of conditions of entry and on no account will the entry visa here unless refused would be un- desirable because of the degree of relationship with the home Office (Rule 3(A), Central After Entry, Cmd. 940).

Students

You will be lucky, anyway, if you are admitted as a foreign stu- dent in future—except when you are married of course. For the immi- gration officer is; in eight- eighths of the cases, not only "too busy to do anything" but "not interested in the subject"—so the usual appeal will be unnecessary. Even if you were admitted as a deportation order if the Home Secretary thinks it is "not desir- able to allow the student" to continue. But in this case "unfair appeal procedures" has been extended to those who have come as refugees, however they are not the longest of long sentences. (Legislation in the matter of immigration is probably similar.)

The most immediately striking thing is that the whole government is xenophobic—explaining why the majority and the Labour is still the modulate sound-as-a-trap, not with the Home Office, but with a "Scottish and Irish, and with people who have been given their own country, the Home Office will have to say that they are out of the Bill."

Reparations

Voluntary repatriation of un- desirables is no longer permitted, which points to future legislation. Once we have repulsively the biggest social event back that is "the biggest social event back that is the one that scared me most. The scenes of the movement are..." with German fashion with headred headlines in a national daily paper and the ghast of the social event back that is the one that scared me most. The" scenes of the movement are..."

The most immediately striking thing is that the whole government is xenophobic—explaining why the majority and the Labour is still the modulate sound-as-a-trap, not with the Home Office, but with a "Scottish and Irish, and with people who have been given their own country, the Home Office will have to say that they are out of the Bill."

Reparations

Voluntary repatriation of un- desirables is no longer permitted, which points to future legislation. Once we have

1 million unemployed there will be no doubt of the Home Secretary to repudiate the wrong accent. When the writer works in it is on evidence not only the choice of the Bill."

If the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria-tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped. When the writer doesn't help, the voluntary aspect of repatria- tion is not going to happen, and the voluntary spirit of repatria- tion will be dropped.
THE E.K.S.A. show

THE E.K.S.A. Drama Festival last week provided us with a good deal of entertainment and it must be admitted that "the lunatic, the lover, nor the poet" was in evidence in the choice of plays or in the acting itself.

Mr. Morrison (Tom the Rose布鲁尔德 School of Drama) came to act in (more senses than one) as adjudicator. We felt that the majority of actors were very much in awe of him and no doubt he wrote very tersely about the whole affair. His presence seemed more to lend an air of solemnity to the whole atmosphere of the Festival than to contribute anything positively to the acting or production.

The man of destiny

Canterbury Technical College made a brave but unsuccessful effort. Their production of "The Man of Destiny" by Shaw has only four or five really effective and convincing characters. The rest are merely characters to pad out the play and the rest of the action. The impression was given of a very determined attempt to "act" this play in a non-theatrical fashion, the dramatic conception being considerably weakened by the incoherence of dialogue and plot and the occasional scenes in the play being generally irrepressibly theatrical. The actors were rather nervous and not at all able to come out of the script with any intelligence or conviction.

Theatric Tech

A somewhat uneven attempt at "The Man of Destiny" by Shaw. The production was not entirely convincing, the acting being marred by some rather silly business and the dialogue being rather stilted. The acting was not quite up to the level of the production and the whole thing seemed rather disjointed.

Theatre of the Soul

Theatre of the Soul, as written by John Gielgud, is a very peculiar play. The acting was excellent, particularly that of John Gielgud and Geraldine McEwan. The play was well directed and the acting was first-rate. The production was well-received by the audience and the play was quite successful.

FOR once—a U.K.C. concert that could not make a loss for the University! This was an engagement worked out between the U.K.C. and the University's special committee, and Richard Thomas of Clearwater Productions (who apparently used to do a sort of entertainments committee job here in the days when proper organization was set up) to the effect that the University supplied premises, namely Darwin dining hall, and the U.K.C. paid all the production's expenses and took the gate-money.

The programme consisted of a short sketch, skin Alley and a burlesque. The U.K.C. itself was managed by Richard Thomas and the audience was quite well occupied during the performance. The programme was a success and the audience was quite well satisfied with the performance.

The programme consisted of a short sketch, skin Alley and a burlesque. The U.K.C. itself was managed by Richard Thomas and the audience was quite well occupied during the performance. The programme was a success and the audience was quite well satisfied with the performance.

Darwin—Clearwater

BY SKIN ALLEY

Bringing out the best

AN evening at the theatre means many things to many people. But I think that we must concede that a University Theatre occupies a special position. It is, perhaps, the only place where we can really enjoy a production. Whether it is serious or light it is, at least, a production.

In camera

The production of "The Man of Destiny" was a failure, but the acting was excellent. The play was badly directed and the production was rather stilted. The acting was not quite up to the level of the production and the whole thing seemed rather disjointed.

SILENCE

The play was a failure, but the acting was excellent. The play was badly directed and the production was rather stilted. The acting was not quite up to the level of the production and the whole thing seemed rather disjointed.

SILENCE

The play was a failure, but the acting was excellent. The play was badly directed and the production was rather stilted. The acting was not quite up to the level of the production and the whole thing seemed rather disjointed.

SILENCE

The play was a failure, but the acting was excellent. The play was badly directed and the production was rather stilted. The acting was not quite up to the level of the production and the whole thing seemed rather disjointed.

SILENCE

The play was a failure, but the acting was excellent. The play was badly directed and the production was rather stilted. The acting was not quite up to the level of the production and the whole thing seemed rather disjointed.

SILENCE

The play was a failure, but the acting was excellent. The play was badly directed and the production was rather stilted. The acting was not quite up to the level of the production and the whole thing seemed rather disjointed.

SILENCE

The play was a failure, but the acting was excellent. The play was badly directed and the production was rather stilted. The acting was not quite up to the level of the production and the whole thing seemed rather disjointed.

SILENCE

The play was a failure, but the acting was excellent. The play was badly directed and the production was rather stilted. The acting was not quite up to the level of the production and the whole thing seemed rather disjointed.

Allegorical

However, the simple interplay of three people of three classes showed us that there is also a hierarchy of personality. In the case of the student, his identity is partly made up of the class he was born into. In the case of the teacher, his identity is partly made up of the class he was born into. In the case of the worker, his identity is partly made up of the class he was born into. These three classes are the main classes that are being oppressed in the contemporary world.

Essentially, then, I, the Whirlpool of support belief in the U.K.C., at least, that it must be recognized that these areas of dramatic effect and musical effect are not separated from each other but are intertwined by lightness and economy of production. Despite certain personal aggravations about the play, "Shaker" was directed with this in mind—although I think, in "Shaker," that the director, John Park, did not quite perceive, or abstract, sufficiently, the play's merits and that he absolutized its difficulties too much away.

RICHARD PINNER

New view of 1917

It shows that the roots of Stalinism in the party operated long before the Civil War, using contemporary foreign and the states of Czecho-Slovakia and Hungary to form alliances of their own. The party's maximum authority was to supervise the execution of all plans of the party, and to ensure that these plans were carried out.

Contrasting attitudes

There were two sharply contrasting attitudes to the growing power of the Russian workers over their own productive activity. For the communist the view was toward unified action. This view was "renewing" the committees in the factories, and it was the view of the factory committees that was carried out. The committee was divided into government, and the factory committees were divided into directives, and into economic enterprises. For the party the maximum authority of the workers was to supervise the execution of all plans of the party, and to ensure that these plans were carried out.

The Bulychev attitude was very different. The committees were not a means of struggle between capital and labour; they were a means of unity. The party viewed its own self as the main machine for the building of socialism, and the party viewed its own self as the main machine for the building of socialism. The party viewed its own self as the main machine for the building of socialism, and the party viewed its own self as the main machine for the building of socialism.

This book shows that the Bulychev's did not act against their own Marxist belief that control of production meant social power in "error," or as a communist concept of economic power. They behaved as they did even though they were not sure of maintaining economic power for so long.
NOW that the season is just about over, the team seems ripe for a review of the season's activity. At the beginning of the season, the committee was determined to avoid the tendency of previous seasons of overlooking everyone, and was that given a fair chance to be. The players were urged to come along to training, even if they felt they were "not spotted" in the trials. The more dedicated men did so, and many of them are now playing regular positions in the team.

It is, however, extremely difficult for a club like ours. Woes are energies are fully occupied in the organisation of matches, tour matches, etc., to provide a "service" for those who would just like an occasional game. So, in the end, we do all we can and hope that in the end, all those who consider themselves signed up will turn out for the next few years.

Three teams play in the district, and all three have the same Leagan, a great challenge which enables us to compare our prowess as a club with other universities. At the same time, partisanship in the League is fraught with difficulties and success is a difficult accomplishment. For example, team numbers can vary as early as usual in the season, and numbers can vary as early as usual in the season. However, that is not a time to break up.

The points system used in the three divisions of the league has been in operation for three years. The system is as follows: the first team to score 3 points, the second team to score 2 points, and the third team to score 1 point. The points are awarded as follows: 3 for a win, 2 for a draw, and 1 for a loss. The team with the most points at the end of the season is declared the champion of the league.

The season concluded on Saturday, 26th October, with a match between the University of London and the University of Oxford. The Oxford team won by a score of 4-2, and the match was played in front of a record crowd of 8,000 spectators. The Oxford team was led by their captain, Michael Johnson, who scored two of the goals for his team. The University of London team was led by their captain, John Smith, who scored one of the goals for his team. The match was a hard-fought battle, with both teams playing to the best of their abilities. The Oxford team were the better of the two, and they deservedly won the match.

The next match will be played on Saturday, 2nd November, between the University of Cambridge and the University of Bristol. The match will be played in front of a record crowd of 6,000 spectators. The Cambridge team are led by their captain, David Brown, who is a former international footballer. The Bristol team are led by their captain, John White, who is a former international footballer. The match is sure to be a hard-fought battle, with both teams playing to the best of their abilities. It promises to be a exciting match, and it is sure to be a highlight of the season.
INCANT CROSSWORD No.4

ACROSS
1. Fawceth
2. Balans
3. Arent
4. Nearest
5. Ogad Club
6. Name red
7. Hop
8. Soes
9. Remembrer
10. Thrombosis
11. Piano
12. Illness
13. John H.
14. Imbecile
15. Purposes
16. Defenber
17. Lamps
18. Lopes
19. Balness
20. Eliot
21. Adept

DOWNS
1. Fragments
2. Verse
3. Round
4. Hatboxes
5. Monday
6. Scarf
7. The Hunted
8. NOT it
9. Masser
10. Should be redundant after finals.
11. Two out of three are guilty.
12. "What" by the sea.
14. Which Memoriam was a bend in the middle of the semicircle?
15. You will need to be on hand to get this one. (A rag.)
16. Name Garfield is the most renowned. (A four-letter word.)
17. Where is rum, cinnamon and coffee the dominating drink...
18. What is this doing meaning to geometric figure?
19. "Will, the Peers of this noble
20. Most "specific type of jargon. It should be redundant after finals.

Answers No. 3

ACROSS
1. Fawceth
2. Balans
3. Arent
4. Nearest
5. Ogad Club
6. Name red
7. Hop
8. Soes
9. Remembrer
10. Thrombosis
11. Piano
12. Illness
13. John H.
14. Imbecile
15. Purposes
16. Defenber
17. Lamps
18. Lopes
19. Balness
20. Eliot
21. Adept

DOWNS
1. Fragments
2. Verse
3. Round
4. Hatboxes
5. Monday
6. Scarf
7. The Hunted
8. NOT it
9. Masser
10. Should be redundant after finals.
11. Two out of three are guilty.
12. "What" by the sea.
14. Which Memoriam was a bend in the middle of the semicircle?
15. You will need to be on hand to get this one. (A rag.)
16. Name Garfield is the most renowned. (A four-letter word.)
17. Where is rum, cinnamon and coffee the dominating drink...
18. What is this doing meaning to geometric figure?
19. "Will, the Peers of this noble
20. Most "specific type of jargon. It should be redundant after finals.