ELIOT COLLEGE

ISSUE 16

18th March 1986

Hi, Welcome to this weeks bumper pre-vac edition of 'Contact' - Eliot's answer to News of The World. This week's issue comes from Peter, your new Comms Rep on the Junior Common-room Clique. It's my first attempt (spent all Sunday writing it, of course, but that's devotion for you) so don't mock. Now read on.

Internal mail

Internal Mail which was not collected by Monday 17th March is being stored in the JCC Office where it may be looked through on request until the end of term, after which it will be destroyed.

Eliot JCC would like to thank the Master, the Master's Secretary, the Housekeeper, and the Porters, in particular Mr Steel, for their co-operation with clearing the area.

Revue.....

Just to confuse matters, the end of term revue has been postponed 'till the beginning of next term. It will now be on April 25th. The question is, can you stand the suspense over the Easter vac?

on the buses

The local bus company has complained to the SU that some students are using out of date coach cards when travelling on buses. The union has so far managed to persuade the company not to withdraw the use of these cards, but if the situation persists, it could result in an end to reduced rate travel for all students. Extra inspectors are being placed on the buses, to catch the offenders. In short - don't jeopardise other student's chances of reduced travel, and pay up.

ELECTIONS FOR WOMENS SABBATICAL OFFICER

Candidates wishing to stand for the post of Women's Officer should collect nomination forms from the hatch in SU Building and hand it in with 40(forty) signatures by noon, Wednesday March 26th. Elections for the post will be held on May 5th.

Blackadder in Comfort!

No, Ian Hargraves hasn't been at the baked beans! But, you soon won't have to sit fifteen to a seat to watch your favourite soap. The middle TV room will shortly be operational and available for hordes of Dallas and Dynasty fans. Oh World!

SAFETY ON CAMPUS

Following the recent spate of attacks on students by youths from Canterbury, some improvements to security have been made. Extra porters will be on duty at weekends in Eliot, and there will be an increased number of security patrols.

Again, be sensible about moving about at night on campus and don't wander around or use Eliot footpath alone. Safety in numbers! Women are reminded that rape alarms are available from the Porters on request.

1986 Animations

"I don't care if you are a human fly - get off my sandwich."

FCS Petition

It would appear that those public spirited members of our campus - the FCS are sending round a 'Freedom of Speech' petition. This has set the alarm bells ringing in the SU building and the advice from HQ is 'don't sign'. Read the small print first and ask yourself what it hopes to achieve. Surely this is an issue for the debating platform, and not for pleas to the government to 'do something about it'.

Eliot Library

Is soon to resume normal service, and will rise from the depths of administrative despair, to open from 9am-6pm Monday to Friday.

Any volunteers interested in helping, should contact 30 in the library, Wednesday's 9-11 am.

catering

Still fed up queing? (no pun intended). Don't despair. The SU are still negotiating with the University for a better deal for us all.

"Think big, lad, think big."

"When do you expect your paints and easel to be delivered?"

'gos sip'

The passengers on the Boulogne-Dover ferry were treated to some Kent Ent at the weekend courtesy of the 'Hair Bear Brinning'. Determined to have a good time, he drank half his duty-free and announced that he had become 'philosophical'. However, I hear one of the group was not amused when hit by a recklessly aimed sachet of tomato sauce and it seems Hair Bear will be having an enforced trip to the day-cleaners. At least he didn't try and climb on his invisible motorcycle!

"I haven't time to listen to all the details - just give me the head-lines again!"

THIS EDITION WAS TYPED BY EMMA WITH THE BITS IN BLUE REDONE BY IAN. THANKS!!

It seems the heat proved too much for a certain member of this college during the work-in at the library. The lady in question decided to cool off in the basement by removing most of her clothing. Certainly raised some eyebrows - if not the temperature!

If you don't think this 'Gossip' is up to much, contact any JCC member and contribute your own!
