First Editorial Meeting Keynes J.C.R.III Tuesday 15th October 1991

WELCOME TO U.K.C.

FROM U.K.C.S.U. PRESIDENT

Welcome to your Students' Union which, with all its services and benefits of membership, will be the one thing on campus you can come to depend upon during your time at Kent.

During the coming year I will repeat myself many times - but I make no apology: it is not an easy time to be a student. The experiences of this summer have shown that Government policies have forced students into great financial hardship. For most of you, learning to survive on a student grant will be an experience you never forget; for some of you debt and uncertainty will become the order of the day - without money to pay your rent or even buy food, survival will mean dropping out of your course altogether. The appalling spectacle of students queuing in soup kitchens, sleeping on mattresses in Sports Halls or being forced into prostitution, can only end with a change of Government policy.

We are proud of our affiliation to the National Union of Students and will actively support its campaign for a new deal for students - a decent living grant, a good standard of accommodation, entitlement to state benefits and greater access to a quality education.

The Students' Union at UKC is an unashamedly active campaigning body. The perverse nature of life at this University - £22,000 (yes, twenty-two thousand) spent on the Vice-Chancellor's BATHROOM last year was accompanied by huge rent rises for students; two years after a woman was viciously raped in her study bedroom, the University looks to make cuts to the night security; and the appointment as Chancellor of Robert Horton, a vocal proponent of tuition fees - means that our Union must be willing and able to stand up for its members.

Campaigning for your rights will be our priority this year - the right to a fair rent, equal rights for lesbians and gay men, improved access for students with disabilities, the right to a safer campus and the right to a living grant and benefits entitlement. Ongoing will be our campaign for a Central Union Building - which represents much more than the right to party - allowing the Students' Union to provide more and better and bigger entertainments and services for you.

In addition, the Students' Union funds the Sports Clubs and Societies active in a diverse range of pursuits (trivial or not). We provide a free and professional welfare advice and rights service, a non-profit making shop, and a second-hand bookshop. Whenever you watch a college television, play a record in a college bar, play pool or table football, see a gig or watch a film, you are taking part in the Students' Union. Help with academic and financial problems is freely available. From football to hyperbole your Union is help!

Please remember you are

SEAN KIRWAN, S.U. PRESIDENT

free to get involved in the Students' Union - through societies, UKC Radio, KRED, JCCs, the Union Executive and UGMs. Our Union is possibly the most democratic organisation you will ever be a part of - despite some people shouting louder or smelling worse or getting their faces better known - we all have the same power and rights.

Support your Union - it is supporting you.

Good luck for the year ahead.

Greatest Expectation

First-year students have compiled, edited, financed and published a book in ten weeks. Part of the summer term course entitled 'Producing Literature', the practical project is a first for British undergraduates, and has proved so successful that it will be retained as a task for the University's future students of English Literature.

The book, Great Expectations?, deals with the realities of student life and provides an alternative guide for freshers.

Greatest Expectation

But at first the eleven students did not believe they would hold the finished article in their hands. Joint editor Miles Banbery says: "A stunned silence reverberated around the seminar room when we were told to compile a book in two weeks and print it by the end of term." The complex procedures involved in producing a book were soon revealed - how does one obtain an ISBN number, for example?

The students rose to the occasion, however, swiftly organising themselves into editorial, finance and production teams. This constructive teamwork was a particular benefit of the new course, says course tutor Dr Kate McLuskie: "New kinds of teaching and learning came into play, and the students learnt both practical and intellectual skills. Teamwork and self-assessment became a critical part of the learning process." She believes that this is the first time undergraduates have been asked to produce a book from scratch, as the course was modelled entirely on specialist postgraduate publishing courses.

Great Expectations? has been financed primarily by a grant from Enterprise Kent, part of the Government's Enterprise in Higher Education Initiative. Kate McLuskie is particularly pleased that the project has extended the boundaries of Enterprise: "We have not just placed students into a work environment, but have made the process an extension of their University work." In addition to producing the book, students attended lectures and seminars and also undertook local internships, some working for listings magazine The World Is Out whilst others worked in the Canterbury Festival offices.

The work has not stopped now the book has gone to press - they are now busy marketing the publication. They anticipate making about £200 from sales, which they will bank for future students on the course. The students are enthusiastic about their achievement: "I didn't realise how much was involved but it hasn't put me off publishing at all", says Fiona McGraff, whilst Lynne Henbrow says: "We have something concrete now, we can hold the book up and say 'This is ours'".

STUDENT POVERTY DEEPENS

By Fergus McConnolly
KRED Education

In terms of finance, this has been the worst year ever for students. Withdrawn entitlement to housing benefit and income support, the introduction of student loans and the gradual decline in the real value of the grant since 1980, has meant that now, more than ever students with spiralling debt are left little option but to drop out of full-time education altogether.

The economic slump has caused a summer vacation nightmare. The Job Centre in Canterbury reported a fall of more than 20% in the availability of temporary employment during July and August, and students desperate for financial support have been turned away empty handed by the Unemployment Office.

Around the country many Students' Unions were forced to follow the example of Sheffield Polytechnic Students' Union in opening soup kitchens and providing floorspace for homeless students. Here at Kent, there has been a noticeable lack of students in the locality - many having to return home to rely on parents for help and support. Some have sought help from the hard-pressed Research and Rights department at the Students' Union which has been able to offer little or no help. One officer reports, "passing the begging-bowl round educational trusts and charities" whose funds have long since dried up.

Alan Howarth, Minister for Higher Education claimed that he, "Didn't want to see students in distress", but the Government's response of providing a £25 million Access Fund for cases of exceptional hardship was clearly misguided. UKC's allocation of £120,000 was completely spent shortly after the Easter vacation. This year's allocation has been increased by just 1.7% - so fewer students can expect help during the coming months as living costs are rising considerably faster.

Provisional figures released by the University have shown that the number of students choosing to intermit (suspend their studies for a year or longer) has risen by nearly a quarter this year. The Students' Union President, Sean Kirwan claimed, "These figures are disastrous and a clear result of Government policy. Access to higher education is becoming more limited for those students from poorer backgrounds". It is estimated that more than a third of intermitting students never return to their studies.

The Students' Union is backing the NUS Target 70 campaign which is calling for extended rights for students: fair grants for all, entitlement to welfare benefits, decent and affordable accommodation, free childcare provision and the abolition of plans to introduce tuition fees. "This campaign is vital to restore dignity to students and encourage people of all backgrounds to enter higher education", said Sean Kirwan.

WELCOME TO KRED

Welcome to U.K.C. and welcome to KRED.

KRED is the weekly newspaper available free to Students at U.K.C. It is also there for every student to try their hand at a bit of journalism.

Interested? Well why don't you come along to our intro. meeting which will be held in Keynes J.C.R.III on Tuesday 15th October, at 6pm. After that meetings will be held every Monday, same time, same place, so why not come along?

LETTERS

The other thing that every student has the right to do is write a letter to KRED. You can complain, complement, or merely comment about anything your heart desires. The "Letters Page" is also a very useful way for myself and the other members of your Students' Union to gain invaluable feedback from the campus.

So don't hesitate, get writing, we want to hear from you.

I hope that the next few years at U.K.C. are both enjoyable and fruitful, I also hope that you keep in contact with YOUR Student Newspaper, KRED.

Good Luck,
Scott Knox, Editor.

Vacation benefits - some "students" can claim

During this summer it has become noticeable that many DSS and Unemployment Benefit Offices do not understand the new rules for students. Many people who should have qualified for benefits have been refused payments. This article will clarify the position of students and non-students. Individual assistance in submitting an appeal or a late claim for benefit will be given by the Union's Research Office staff.

Who can claim benefit?

People who have completed a course can claim benefit, even if they intend to commence a new course later in the year. For example, a student who graduated in June but intends to commence a postgraduate course in October, should be designated as a "non-student" for the period of the summer. The same applies to a person who completes a full time pre-University course before commencing a full time degree. The "non-student" status should also be appropriate to a person who abandons or fails a course part way through, even if they intend to commence a new course in this academic year.

It has become clear to the Union that many Benefit offices have wrongly been using the expressed intention of a "student" that they will commence a new course, as a reason to refuse benefit. Two possible results have arisen from this situation:

- Verbal information given by the official that the claim would fail, and therefore advice that it should be withdrawn.
- A written decision from the Adjudication Officer that the claimant is a student and is therefore ineligible for benefit.

Late Claims and Appeals

If a person attempted to make a claim, the result of which was as in a) above, it is our view that there would be a reasonable ground to make a late claim for reason of "good cause." That is because the claimant was misled by an official acting on behalf of the Dept. of Employment. If a claim resulted in a written decision of refusal, there is a statutory right of appeal to an independent Tribunal. The Tribunal will consider the case and come to a decision which the Department must obey.

The Union can provide help and assistance in formulating letters of appeal or late applications.

Who can not claim?

Students who are in the midst of a course, e.g. between year one and two, are not eligible for benefit, even those who have contributed to National Insurance.

Who can claim - special cases

Single students with dependants; married or cohabiting couples with dependants where one person is not a student; certain students with disabilities who are not required to be available for work as a condition of benefit entitlement.

Vacation Poll Tax

Students who complete a course cease to be automatically entitled to pay the reduced 20% charge. Therefore, those "students" who complete a course and intend to start a new course this year will be billed at the full rate of tax for the period of the summer, unless they apply for Community Charge Benefit. If the person receives Income Support they will be entitled to a reduced charge of 20%. A person who is on a low wage or unemployment benefit (not Income Support) must make an individual claim for Poll Tax benefit.

Poll Tax - 18 years old and child benefit

Students who have just left school or college will be exempt from poll tax provided that a parent or other person is entitled to claim child benefit in respect of the student. Exemption lasts until the day that child benefit ceases, or the first Monday in September, or on reaching the age of 19 years, whichever is the earlier.

Some local authorities have attempted to charge 18 year olds from the date of the 18th birthday even when the person has still been at school. It is possible to challenge their decision, assistance will be given by Union Research Dept.

Poll tax authorities in the student's parental area will send students a bill for the period from the first Monday in September. Unless poll tax benefit has been requested, the bill will be for the full amount of charge. New students who were unwaged and not signing on for social security benefits should write to their previous poll tax area authorities and make a formal application for benefit for the period up to the date they moved to this area. Poll tax liability ceases at the parental address from the last day of residence. A new liability for poll tax starts in this area when the person gains a "permanent" address. On becoming a student a person is liable for poll tax in the area of their normal term time address, regardless of where the person may reside during the vacations.

New students who have just begun a course will have a liability of approximately £18 until the end of the financial year. For further information on the poll tax see page 91 of the Union Handbook or ask for advice at the Union.

OVERSEAS STUDENTS' BURSARY FUND

The Overseas Students' Bursary Fund has been established to raise money for the provision of higher education for those people who are denied the opportunity to study in their own country for reasons of political, social or ethnic persecution.

This fund has been in operation for a number of years and has enabled students from South Africa, Namibia, Grenada and Nigeria to obtain higher education degrees. The University waive tuition fees for two scholars each year and the Fund raises money to pay for their personal maintenance.

Some University staff make direct contributions from their wages, which raises over £3,500 per year. Union members have raised money through benefits, sponsored events and direct donations which last year totalled around £2,500.

This year, the Union hopes to raise more money by a new scheme of an additional levy on campus rents of £1.50, to be added to the second term's rent charge.

The £1.50 per year addition to the rent is equal to 5p per week for students living in college and is an easy way of making a contribution to the Fund. Students who do not wish to make this voluntary donation towards assisting people from less fortunate backgrounds can contract out of the payment by completing the form below. The form must be returned to the University Income Office by 20th December, 1991.

LESBIAN & GAY RIGHTS PORTFOLIO

"We're a happy (pretend) family
We're a happy (pretend) family
And we live at the foot of the old fir tree...."

Well, none of Beatrix Potter's characters were Lesbian, Gay or Bisexual. Or if they were nobody told us. Not that anyone would. Let's face facts, not even Noddy and Big Ears sleep together anymore. The twilight land of childhood bliss is no longer a happy one. The law of the land has banned all happy (deep breath) lesbian, gay and bisexual role models! And we are not happy with the fact. Call it Thatcher's legacy, call it a conspiracy, but some people still do not want to believe we exist.

But we do, ooh yes we do! And unlike polite children we believe in being seen and being heard. So... We're Here, We're Queer, and We Ain't Gonna Study (well, maybe a little bit!)

Of course, you don't have to shout if you don't want to, if you just want to sit and get pissed and bemoan your life story to us, then we'll sit and listen. Because we are happy people and we want everyone else to be happy in the way that suits them. So if shouting's your scene, fine, but if you would rather curl up on your bed with your copy of "The Well of Loneliness", listening to Michelle Shocked, under your poster of Sinead O'Connor, well that's fine too!

Now, if you've not read the leaflet, or simply used it for spare bog roll, then we won't take it personally. But remember we are here for you (you being 1 in 10; yes, I know it's unoriginal, but until a few more people come out and bump up the statistics that's the truth of the matter). And as part of your wonderful SU we do all those lovely SU chores (zzz!) as well as making sure that you have every opportunity to live in a happy homophobe free society. But, life ain't no bed of gladiolis, so we'll need a bit of help in return. Please! Otherwise, we may be the first stress-related spontaneously combusting Lesbian and Gay Rights officers ever!

Now, we might not have our own office but we do have a filing cabinet drawer in the Women's Officer's room, it's a bit cramped but we tend to think of it as home. Failing to find us there, just look for us lying in a drunken heap in Eliot JCR.

So, if you're unhappy and you think we can help, then talk to us, because we are your brothers and sisters and we're all one big happy family.

(I'm so glad that's over with, now let's get rid of these forced similes!)

PROMOTION

Aside from being one of the most controversial new bands on the music scene, 25th of May are also one of the most musically innovative. Behind the out-spoken left wing politics and public quarrels with their record company lies a wicked live band. 25th of May have successfully blended white rap music with house dance, while still managing to keep to the traditional rock band line-up (none of that one person and 20 computers rubbish here!).

The controversy this band leaps into has in many ways hindered their rise to the top rather than aided it. Their first single 'It's all right' was with-drawn from public sale due to the fact that it depicted an unflattering picture of the Queens face surrounded by bombers and crying babies on the cover. This was promptly followed up by their next single 'F... the right to vote' on which their record company insisted that the offending word was replaced with 'stuff'. 25th of May promptly stole the original tapes from the record company and pressed their own bootleg copy.

The latest episode in this tale of controversy is that Swindells (the lead singer) is intending to stand for parliament in the forth-coming election. The plot thickens!

However aside from all this showbiz gossip (?) 25th of May are a great band and well worth seeing while they're still playing at an affordable (I hope) price!

the sound of summer '91

The summer of 1991 saw many album releases, some of which mattered and some of which pittered away into the distance.

The following four albums in the opinion of Scott Knox, mattered a great deal.

So read on and reminisce that summer bliss.

Color Me Badd: "C.M.B." (Giant)

Well, what can I say? They've been in the Top 5 twice so far, and they have only released two singles. Their debut single made No. 1. They are at No. 1 at the moment in America. They have a hugely successful album.

And all of that in the space of 6 months.

American group Color Me Badd are sensational, notching up hits world-wide. Their album, simply titled "C.M.B.", if listened to, will tell you exactly why.

Including both of their smash hit singles "I Wanna Sex You Up", "All 4 Love" and their current U.S. No. 1 "I Adore Mi Amore", which is also their new U.K. release, "C.M.B." is a classic album combining acapella with today's rap sound, or a moody ballad groove, or an almost 60's swing.

Without a doubt every track could be lifted from the album and turned into a global Top 10 smash. Tracks like "Heartbreaker", "Slow Motion" and the smooth ballad "Thinkin' Back".

I predict that for 1991 Color Me Badd will be awarded "Best International Band" at the Brit Awards, and will walk away with a tidy handful of titles from the U.S. Grammy Awards, and Mark, Bryan, Kevin and Sam, the Oklahoma City lads, will deserve every one.

Without Color Me Badd, without "C.M.B." your collection of records is naked. A must.

C & C Music Factory: "Gonna Make You Sweat." (C.B.S.)

The techno-funk sound of C and C Music Factory is a treat to the feet. Robert Clivillés is one "C" and David Cole is the other, and together with the cool rapping of Freedom Williams and the soulful vocals of Zelma Davis "Gonna Make You Sweat" is a groove of an album.

Featuring the singles "Gonna Make You Sweat", "Here We Go" and the recent Top 10 smash "Things That Make You Go Hmmm...", the album is a must for every club sound lover.

The album includes many tracks that will undoubtedly become huge singles in the months to come, especially the excellent deep rap "A Groove of Love." All in all, a superbly danceable album that was a definite summer '91 great.

P.M. Dawn: "Of the Heart, Of the Soul and of the Cross: The Utopian Experience." (Island)

Classic soul, rap from the heart would sum up this fabulous album. With one of the greatest covers I've seen in years you could spend hours just looking at it even if you didn't like the music.

Featuring the recent hit "Set Adrift On Memory Bliss", a track that samples Spandau Ballet's No. 1 "True" (and prompted their second "Greatest Hits" release) "The Utopian Experience" is an album that is difficult to grasp. With a cover of landscape photography and poetry, and titles such as "Paper Doll", "To Serenade a Rainbow", and "In the Presence of Mirrors", can you see what I mean?

"The Utopian Experience", produced by P.M. Dawn, takes rap in to a new era, perhaps one may call it rap with brains. What you should definitely do is give the album a listen, you may find you like rap after all.

Seal: "Seal" (Z.T.T.)

Seal is undoubtedly the biggest Zang Tum Tum (Z.T.T.) property since Frankie Goes To Hollywood. His self-titled album features the singles "The Beginning", "Crazy", "Future Love Paradise" and a superb remix of the No. 1 "Killer", which he performed with Adamski.

The album may be plain titled and plain covered but it is by no means plain sounding. Seal's excellently husky voice combined with some of the deepest soul music I've heard in years creates one of those albums that one way or another becomes part of everyone's record collection.

Whether you like "chart" music or not, "Seal" is a timeless classic that deserves listening to.

E-ZEE, IZN'T IT?

Last year, E-zee Possee had a top 20 hit with the Radio 1 and Top of the Pops banned single "Everything starts with an 'E'". Follow up singles "Love on Love", featuring Dr Mouthquake, and "The Sun Machine" failed to make a chart position, however they're back with a great new single called "Breathing Is E-zee" featuring Tara Newley.

Want to know who Tara Newley is? Well, ever heard of actor Anthony Newley? ever heard of Joan Collins? Tara Newley is their talented offspring. Interesting, huh?! Tara, apparently, has been trying to break into the pop scene for quite a time now, with little success, until she met a little known record company boss by the name of George O'Dowd. George may only have been a Boy but he sure knew the "biz."

That's right, pop star, now owner of More Protein Records, on which he has released his Jesus Loves You singles, Boy George took young Tara under his wing. After an introduction to Jeremy Healy and many hours in a hot and sweaty recording studio "Breathing Is E-zee" was created. A superbly danceable track with a definite Deee-Lite feel to it, "Breathing Is E-zee" will hopefully put E-zee Possee and Tara Newley firmly on the musical map. Scott Knox

Six aspiring young travel writers can win a trip to the East

The best wins a trip to the East End of London

If you're 25 or under and you like to write, and particularly if you want a career in journalism, try your hand at The Daily Telegraph's 'Young Travel Writer of the Year' competition. If you win the title, The Daily Telegraph will commission you to write 3 or 4 pieces for our travel section (paid, of course). That is about the best break into journalism we're aware of.

The Competition. You have to submit a 500 word article on a travel theme; about a place; or a journey for instance. It can be real, from experience, or imaginary. What will count is not the destination, or the subject matter, but the actual quality of your writing.

The Prizes. Six finalists will be chosen to go on an expenses paid press trip to the Far East, courtesy of The Daily Telegraph and Cathay Pacific. After your trip you will be asked to submit another 1,000 word piece. Then, we choose the winner.

Write for the full details to: The Daily Telegraph Young Travel Writer of the Year Award, Marketing Department, The Daily Telegraph, 181 Marsh Wall, London E14 9SR, or telephone 071 538 6966, before CATHAY PACIFIC Monday December 16 1991.

GUIDELINES ON SAFETY

Due to the nature of our society, like it or not, it's a fact that women are more at risk of violence and sexual attacks than men. And again, whilst it is grossly unjust, it is us who have to shoulder the responsibility of countering these attacks by looking out for ourselves.

Here are some points to remember which may not guarantee a safe life, but they may make things easier.

On Campus

1. Wherever possible stay on the lit footpaths (report any failed street lights to Maintenance Ext. 3376).
2. Arrange to walk in a group or with friends across campus, e.g. Visitors Car Park to Keynes, down Eliot footpath, to Parkwood.
3. Make use of the escort service provided by the security guards (7 p.m. - 7 a.m.) - Contact a Porter's Lodge, ring Ext. 3060 or 3300.
4. Always make use of spyholes which are now in all residence doors.
5. All Maintenance staff now carry ID. If someone comes to your room, it is your right to demand to see it.
6. If unknown persons come to your room trying to sell you insurance or goods, report them immediately to the Porter. (Parkwood notify Keynes Porters).
7. Never ever feel obliged to invite someone back to your room. (31% of rapists are the sort of men who drop in for coffee). For emergencies - Ambulance, Fire, Police - Ext. 3333.

Off Campus Residence

1. If your home does not already have them, consider asking the landlady/lord for
 - safety chains on doors.
 - window locks especially on Ground Floor rooms.
2. Always ask to see ID of visiting officials or unknown persons (never assume they are somebody else's 'friend').
3. Never put your address/ID with your key
4. If the house is going to be empty, alert
 - a friend
 - a neighbour
 - the police
 to keep an eye out for you.
5. Always tell other people in your house if you have given your key to someone else, or if you have someone staying.
6. Try and make sure somebody always knows where you are going and when you'll be back, especially if you are going somewhere alone.

By Car

1. Always keep a basic maintenance kit in the car.
2. Always make sure you have enough petrol etc. to get you where you're going.
3. Always try and make sure someone knows where you are going, and if possible ring them when you get there.
4. Always check inside your car before you get in it.
5. Always try and park in a well lit area.
6. If followed, drive straight to a police station or place where you can get help, never drive home.

Buses/Trains

1. Always try and wait in a crowded place or a safe place, e.g. Ticket Office.
2. Always try not to sit in an enclosed carriage but sit in one with through access to other parts of the train.
3. Try and sit next to or near the driver or guard if the bus/train is empty.

Hitching

1. Try not to hitch alone.
2. Never feel obliged to accept the lift if you feel uneasy.
3. Sit next to a door (i.e. not in the back of a 2-door vehicle).
4. Work out where the door lever is as soon as you get in.

Drivers

1. Please be sympathetic to hitchers, especially women hitching alone.

Walking

1. Always try and walk with a friend or in groups.
2. Always try and vary your route on a regular journey.
3. Always keep to well lit paths, even walk down the middle of roads with little traffic.
4. Always be alert (personal headsets might stop you hearing someone approaching).
5. Always walk confidently, after all, you have every right to be there.
6. Always feel able to go up to the nearest house etc. for assistance if you think you are in danger. You do not have to go inside, but you could ask them to phone a taxi.

Reporting Incidents

On Campus

Go straight to the nearest Porter's Lodge or Ring Security Ext. 3060 or Emergencies Ext. 3333 and then inform the Women's Officer at the Students' Union A.S.A.P., Ext. 3476.

Write down a description of the incident and the person involved as soon as you can.

The Women's Officer tries to keep a record of all incidents reported on campus. Confidentiality is as always totally assured, and by telling me you are not obliged to take the incident any further than you want to.

However, with the evidence of reports (including anonymous ones) we can pressurise the University into realising that safety is a priority issue and one which comes above finance and internal politics.

Locking ourselves in our rooms after dark is not the answer, fighting back is.

WE HAVE THE RIGHT TO A SAFER CAMPUS.

RAPE HAPPENS IT COULD HAPPEN TO YOU

Out of 60% of reported rapes -

- 35% are by acquaintances
- 9% are by people in a position of trust
- 16% are by partners
- 31% of women are raped in their own home

These are the findings of the London Rape Crisis Centre.

WARNING

A flasher has been spotted on several occasions on the southern slopes (inbetween Eliot footpath and University road). Despite the ridicule which 'flashing' attracts this is a serious problem and should be realised as such. You are advised to take extra care in that vicinity eg, do not walk there alone. If you see the man in question (at last sighting he was wearing a balaclava helmet over his face), report the time and place with a description as soon as you can to:-

Security	Extn 3060/3300
A Porters' Lodge	Darwin Extn 7511	Keynes	Extn 7436
	Eliot Extn 3136	Rutherford	Extn 3419
The Women's Officer	Extn 3476
In an EMERGENCY	Extn 3333 ie, serious incident (where someone gets hurt).

TAKE CARE!

Look what you save when you buy a Young Persons Railcard.

Between Sept 15th and Nov 9th, a Young Persons Railcard is half price. £8 instead of £16. With a third off most rail fares for 12 months. And when you buy one you can help raise the target of £100,000 for Friends of the Earth. So you're not just saving £8. You're helping save the ozone layer. And the rainforests. And perhaps the planet. Which, all in all, is quite a saving. Pick up a leaflet for full details. Friends of the Earth  YOUNG PERSONS RAILCARD

3 CHEERS FOR SHEFFIELD

Rob Hamilton-Jones reviews Sheffield's World Student Games where British competitors and organisers alike found success only at the last minute.

Both before and during, everything indicated that these Games would fail. Yet they did not. That somehow this Year's World Student Games triumphed seems to have as much to do with the location as anything else.

As Sheffield's organisers grappled determinedly with their financial problems, the general public turned out in force - a capacity 25,000 saw the final day of track and field. But the signs were foreboding: at the opening ceremony, already scaled down to cut costs, Britain's first spaceperson, Helen Sharman, tripped over the track curb and extinguished the Games' Flame as she set the red carpet on fire; national network television coverage was virtually absent whilst the press warmed to the Championships very slowly. Worse still, neither Olympic 1500m. Champion Peter Rono nor World 200m. leader Robson da Silva turned up, although the latter was still credited with victory in a 200m. heat.

Many countries, in particular America, maintain their elite sportsmen at their Universities so Great Britain never expect to fare too well at these Championships. And it was not until the end of a Swimming programme, dominated by the United States and China, that Ian Wilson produced his second fastest 1500m. ever, a victorious 15:15, to take our first medal.

Things were certainly looking up when the British Soccer team won bronze, defeating Uruguay 2-1 in the Third/Fourth place play-off, and the men's hockey sidestormed into the final. There they ran out 3-0 winners against a strong German squad, that forced several superb saves from goalkeeper David Luckes early on, but succumbed to lethal counter-attacks.

And so to the Track and Field programme, where British team Captain Steve Backley, at least, was expected to give the home crowd something to remember. The stage was set for Backley to revel in glory as the last day, and his event, was reached without a British Track and Field Gold. But things are never so simple! Yes, his enormous throw of over 87m. was easily enough for gold, but he had already been upstaged. For Jon Mayock, 20, who lives down the road from Sheffield and trains with Peter Elliott, had clinched the 500m. title in fairytale fashion. Only brought into the team at the last possible moment, after being nominated as reserve for the 1500m., he ran a personal best [14:01] to win his heat then let the fervent crowd drive him to a lightning finish in the final, where he took the lead only in the last 10m. to prevail by 0.06s. in 13:39.25.

Another medallist with local links was Curtis Robb, who had a narrow escape during the Hillsborough disaster and now studies at Sheffield University. In a blanket finish he placed equal second [1:446.88] behind Italian Guisepppe D'Urso. With Britain gaining 3 additional silvers and 3 bronze, home advantage seemed to help.

The Track and Field attracted an aggregate crowd of over 70,000 to witness a spectacle whose standard, on average, was equal to that of the last Commonwealth Games. Even Radio 1 reported the events of the final afternoon. While many would argue that this is not a definitive vindication, it certainly symptomised the widespread acceptance which the Games had found at last.

WELCOME TO U.K.C. FROM THE SPORTS FED.

Kent's sporting clubs have little time to pause to welcome newcomers, before surging headlong into hectic fixture lists. Although most clubs are involved in local leagues, the primary competition in which each competes is the U.A.U. (sponsored by the Commercial Union).

Due to national re-structuring of the U.A.U., we once again find ourselves pitted against different Universities at the qualifying stage. The group has been reduced in size, and Kent face fixtures against Surrey, Sussex, L.S.E., and, for the first time, City. The fixtures (for all field sports, plus Squash, Badminton, Netball, Table Tennis, Golf and Tennis), are as follows:-

23rd October vs. Surrey University (Home)
30th October vs. City (Away)

6th November vs. Sussex University (Away)
20th November vs. LSE (Home)
Depending upon group fixture results, teams will then progress to Play Offs in January - before entering the Challenge Rounds later in the Lent Term.

U.A.U. is also the body which runs the University representative teams - in which Kent has regularly had sportsmen and women.

Support is always welcome for all fixtures, but most importantly on U.A.U. days. Come over to the Sports fields on Wednesday afternoon to cheer on your Sports Clubs, and you can also enjoy a drink at the Oast House bar.

If you want to know anymore about U.A.U. (sponsored by C.U.), then pop into the Sports Federation office and ask Jean or myself. Alternatively talk to your U.A.U. Men's Rep, Ross Walker (Eliot), or U.A.U. Women's Rep, Sarah Boddy (Eliot).
