

FOLLOW THE REFUGEE TALES TRAIL

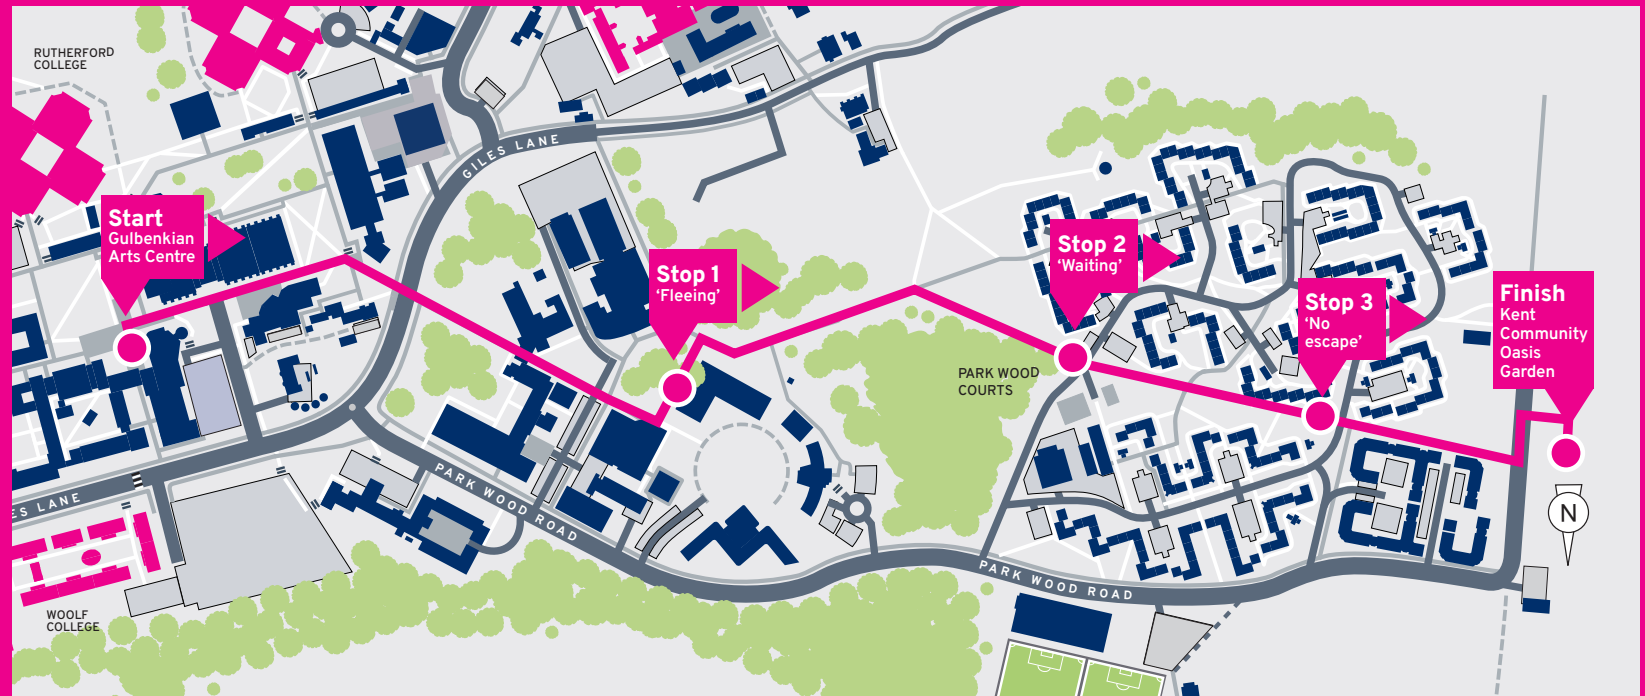

Refugee Tales

University of
Kent

Follow the pink signs from the Gulbenkian Arts Centre to read or listen to three extracts from the Refugee Tales, and find the Kent Community Oasis Garden to reflect and leave a message.

REFUGEE WEEK 19-25 JUNE 2023

Follow the trail in your own time until 31 August

Walk length: 1.3km (0.6 miles)

Accessibility: step-free, level access throughout. Some of garden terrain at the end is slightly uneven. Includes crossing several small, quiet roads at designated crossing points.

Find out more at
kent.ac.uk/refugee-week

REFUGEE WEEK 19-25 JUNE 2023

Refugee Week is a UK-wide festival celebrating the contributions, creativity and resilience of refugees and people seeking sanctuary.

Our world is interconnected: something seemingly “far away” impacts everyone, including our Kent community.

Compassion in action

This Refugee Week focuses on compassion, and at the University of Kent, we seek to enable people from different backgrounds to connect beyond labels.

We want to help our whole community to understand why people are displaced and the challenges they face when seeking safety, and develop a curious and compassionate approach to the topic of seeking refuge and asylum.

GET INVOLVED.

Walk the Refugee Tales trail until 31 August and learn about the University of Kent's partnership with the project.

CONTRIBUTE.

Donate clothes to the Gatwick Detainees Welfare Group at our drop-off point in the Gulbenkian foyer.

Find out about Kent's work to become a University of Sanctuary, and contribute to the fund.

EXPLORE OUR WORK.

From our signature research theme, Migration and Movement, to our creative arts projects on campus, discover the University of Kent's work with and for refugees and asylum seekers.

Find out more at
kent.ac.uk/refugee-week

Refugee Tales

University of Kent